To Whom It May Concern,

Alison Rucker began working at Pro-Motions in January 2002 and soon became indispensable to our company. She quickly grasped her job duties and performed her work with skill and professionalism. Her position began as a marketing coordinator in the ASI department, and it soon became evident that she was capable of much more. Moving swiftly upward, Alison became the project manager for several key accounts, a job at which she excels.

I can confidently describe Alison as a self-starter who quickly assumes responsibility and is not afraid to face new challenges and situations. Also very personable, Alison is requested by many of our clients as their key contact. It will be difficult to replace her.

As operations manager of Pro-Motions Inc., I would readily rehire Alison given the opportunity. I recommend her highly for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Kay Gallant
Operations Manager
